1. The Nationaldemokratische Partei Deutschlands (National Democratic Party of Germany) (NDPD) is financed by the SED. Karl Raab, the treasurer of the SED, by order of Walter Ulbricht, regularly transfers about 750,000 eastmarks every month to this party. Additional sums of up to 200,000 eastmarks are paid if the necessity arises. However, in spite of this help, the NDPD is always short of money because of poor financial planning and management.<sup>1</sup>
2. The NDPD has been subject to a close control by the SED for about 18 months. Principal statements of policy require Ulbricht's approval. Dr Lothar Bolz maintains close connection with Ulbricht. The main departmental leaders of the central party headquarters have been ordered to discuss all important questions with their opposite numbers at the SED headquarters. Thus for instance, in the field of municipal administration, Reinhold Hennig (NDPD) coordinates with Anton Plenikowski (SED) in economic affairs; Dr Hans-Wilhelm Feldmann (NDPD) coordinates with Willi Stoph (SED); and in matters of general interest, Vincenz Mueller coordinates with Hermann Matern (SED). The same coordination exists at Kreis and Bezirk levels. NDPD functionaries consider their opposite numbers in the SED as their superiors.
3. Schroeter (fnu) was ordered by the SED to supervise the NDP. All measures taken by NDPD functionaries are continuously checked by SED Kreis and Bezirk headquarters, and the result of this check is reported to the central committee of the SED. Experience has shown that the central SED headquarters is better informed on happenings within the NDPD than the central NDPD headquarters itself.
